TO BE READY NEXT WEEK.

A New Novel by the Author of "Robert Elmer."

MARCELLA.

By Mrs. HUMPHRY WARD, author of "The History of David Elmer," "Robert Elmer," etc., etc. With new Portrait. In two volumes, small 12mo. Cloth, in box, price $2.00.

"In Robert Elmer" and "David Elmer" a great talent was at work, but the question whether behind the talent there was that originating force which we call genius was left unanswered. In "Marcella" that question is answered beyond a doubt "Marcella" marks a large advance in the art of novel-writing Mrs. Ward has worked through her character, and found herself, speaks at last, in clear, resonant tones, out of the depths of her own nature, and made of her the mirror of the school As in the earlier stories, Mrs. Ward's task is to dramatize the strife of the soul with its inheritance and its conditions She makes every step in the vital development of Marcella clear, no so much by description as by the disclosure of the happenings of her outward life. We are concerned from first to last with the question of her fate Mrs. Ward deals with problems; but her real interest is in the problem of the personal life In "Marcella" Mrs. Ward presents the question of the day in strict subordination to a rich and brilliant temperament, deep feeling, intense passion, and noble but impetuous and unstable character. She exhibits the social revolution as it touches the personality of native force and artistic sensitiveness It is with these subjects that art legitimately deals; and it is these aspects of the modern problem which are set forth with marvellous vividness and power in the story of Marcella's career."—Mr. Hamilton W. Mabie, in The Forum for April.
